PRICE TWO CENTS

S.E.C. SURPLUS MUST INCREASE

Financial Statement Issued

The present surplus is equal to less than one month's expenditures of the Students Executive Council, based on nine months operation, and should not be impaired any further," Harold Corrigan, chairman of the Finance Committee, declared at the Open Meeting of the S.E.C. Wednesday night. As reported in yesterday's Daily, Corrigan recommended that all future expenditures should be made from current revenue until the surplus is increased an adequate amount.

The complete text of Corrigan's report on the financial position of the Students Society follows:

The accounts receivable have been reduced to $12,904, of which Dawson College Students Council owes $3,481, and McGill University owes $7,223 balance on the Students Society Fees. Satisfactory arrangements have been made with the Dawson Council for the final settlement of their account at the end of the college year 49-50.

The surplus was reduced from $17,213 to $12,899, a decrease of $4,314. This can be accounted for by the inauguration of a pension plan for Union and S.E.C. employees, modernization of the Union grill room, installation of furnaces and the construction of a ladies' powder room in the Union. The greater part of these expenditures were financed from current revenue, but approximately one-fifth had to be financed from surplus.

The present surplus is equal to less than one month's expenditures of the Students Executive Council, based on nine months operation, and should not be impaired any further. All future expenditures, till the surplus is increased sufficiently, should be made from current revenue. If this policy is not adhered to by this Council, and the new members to be elected next Christmas, the S.E.C. might find itself in a difficult financial position.

Cost of Administration
The cost of administration of the Students Society was slightly more than one-tenth of the total expenditures of the Society. These expenditures are comparatively fixed, and vary little with the changes in student enrollment.

The net cost of student activities was reduced by 50% to $5,632. It is hoped that these losses will be reduced this year.

The McGill Union sustained an operating loss of $620 in spite of an increase in its revenue from student fees, which will be reduced this year 49-50. Its loss does not include any charge for the improvement made to the Union during the summer 49, which amounted to $14,100.

The McGill Daily's revenue was $1,112 less than expenditures, although it too had increased revenue from student fees.

The expenditures made by both organizations were not excessive and apparently will not decrease during the coming year even though student enrollment may be less; in fact the expenditures will in all probability increase due to the rise in prices.

Red and White Review
The Red and White Review sustained a loss of $1,086. The actual expenditures were $3,426 as against an authorized budget of $3,100. Revenue was $2,339 compared to her estimate of $3,653. In the year 47-48 this organization lost $781 and in the year 46-47 a loss of $463. There is a definite dangerous trend in the losses incurred by this organization. Thorough control should be maintained by the S.E.C. this year to prevent a recurrence of this condition.

The Students Handbook cost the S.E.C. $2,038 and in the year 49-50 will cost $1,500. The value of this publication should be carefully considered by the Council members.

Total expenditures by all organizations, including the improvements to the Union and the pension plan, were $102,163.04 compared to total revenue of $104,847.90. Several controls have already been introduced by this Finance Committee to prevent excessive expenditures. The Committee alone cannot accomplish this but must have the whole-hearted support of the student body. This, however, (Continued on Page 4.)

Club Publicity Agents Meet for New Plans

The second meeting for publicity agents of the campus clubs and organizations will be held at 1.15 today in the McGill Union. The room number will be posted in the Union.

All publicity agents who attended yesterday's meeting need not attend. Those who were not there are requested to attend.

The presidents of the clubs are also requested to attend this meeting, as they should know publicity procedure as well as their publicity agents.

A new publicity system is going into effect on Sunday, and anyone not complying with the new regulations will not have satisfactory coverage in The McGill Daily.

Dances Will Honor Redmen After Game This Saturday

On Saturday October 22 the Union Committee will sponsor two dances at the Sir Arthur Currie Gym, one immediately after the McGill-Queens football game and lasting until 7 p.m. and the other starting at 8.00 p.m. and lasting until 12.30 a.m.

Playing at the first dance will be Johnny Holmes and his sextet plus some members of the Queens band and their cheerleaders. In the evening the Westerners will hold the spotlight. Prices for the tea dance will be fifty cents a head while the evening event will cost seventy-five cents apiece.

The tea dances will start immediately after the game and will carry on until 7.00 p.m. It will be remembered by the oldsters amongst us that at these functions before the war, in the event that McGill won the football game, a snake dance was held which took place at various points in the city. It was usually quite a riotous affair and one which was looked forward to by all. However this year, after the tea dance there will be a short intermission until the main part of the evening gets under way with another dance at 8.00 o'clock.

At the evening dance the football team will be introduced by Captain Rocky Robillard and Coach Obeck. This will be a chance for all present to meet the members of our big Red Machine and also the Queens team. After this the second big event of the evening will get underway with a group singing a new McGill song written by Donistroy student, Roy Dohn, who also

Mental Clinic Inaugurated Tours Quebec

By BOB PERRY
Sherbrooke, Oct. 20. — A mental health clinic, the first of its kind in the province, held yesterday in Sherbrooke General Hospital, was termed "very satisfactory" last night by Dr. George E. Reed, assistant professor of psychiatry at McGill University.

Inaugurated here, the clinic will travel throughout the Province of Quebec sponsored for English-speaking families by the Mental Hygiene Institute of Montreal and the Verdun Protestant Hospital. It is made possible by a Dominion-Provincial mental health grant to McGill University.

Five persons visited the clinic in Sherbrooke yesterday. Dr. Reed said, describing the results as "very satisfactory."

Lauding the co-operation of doctors at the Sherbrooke Hospital, Dr. Reed declared their interest "encouraging." He noted they were "alive" to psychiatric treatment of mental disorders and were incorporating facilities for such treatment in a new hospital building now under construction.

The clinic itself, he told The Daily, "is something that will develop."

Debaters Try Out To Represent McGill

The McGill Debating Society held try-outs for inexperienced debaters yesterday at 5 p.m. at the McGill Union.

The Resolution, "Should Canadian Universities be Subsidized by the Federal Government?" was discussed by 13 contestants. The judges were Ted Hugessen and Isadore Rosenfeld, who represented McGill at a series of tournaments in England last winter.

Before the speeches, Mr. Rosenfeld outlined the points on which the judging would be made and gave a few suggestions to the debaters on improving their presentation.

Mr. "Cuzz" Curran, the chairman, explained that the purpose of the meeting was to find those of good calibre to compete in future debates at McGill.

After the speeches, Messrs. Hugessen and Rosenfeld then gave general comments on the material and presentation, and suggested means of improving these.

Gives Blood to See McGill Beat Varsity

It seems that even Toronto people are drawn to Montreal once in a while. One young man; even though a student at Varsity, was so anxious to see the famous Redmen play football last Saturday that he even was willing to part with his own blood to do it.

Apparently this particular student was broke; and also determined. The sale of four pints of blood got him the $20 necessary to finance the trip. He was, no doubt, gratified by the outcome of the game.

Guatemalan Students Try To Call Home

At press time Guatemala students at McGill had not had further details on the disastrous floods which hit their country following torrential rains.

Derick Calderon, second year Arts, told The Daily he had attempted to contact his father, who owns coffee and banana plantations in the department of Suchitepequez on the Pacific Coast, by telephone but had not been able to get a call through. The consulate of Guatemala in Montreal was unable to supply The Daily with any details beyond those which have been sent through by United Press and Associated Press.

Damage estimates have reached $40,000,000 in what has been described as the worst disaster in Guatemala's history. The hardest hit areas were the departments of Escuintla, Quetzaltenango, San Marcos, Santa Rosa, Jutiapa, Jalapa and Sacatepequez, most of which border on the Pacific Ocean.

It is believed there are seven Guatemalans at McGill and three at Dawson College.

Calderon said there are usually heavy floods in Guatemala at this time of year and $10,000,000 damage is not unusual.

Pep Rally Expensive, Queen's Pair Fin(e)d

Kingston, Oct. 18. — (CUP) — Two Queen's students found attending pep rallies an expensive pastime last week-end.

They were fined $41 each for stealing two construction lanterns while attending the Queen's Western game.

The presiding magistrate originally sentenced them to 10 days in jail for removing public property and endangering human life, but the sentence was changed after the students told him that their years would be jeopardized by a ten-day jail sentence.

So far, 15 lanterns have been stolen in Kingston.

McGill Dance Will Feature College Song

This Saturday night at the Football Dance a new song about "Old McGill" will be introduced at 10 p.m. by the Westerners, accompanied by a male choir. Copies of the song will be made available at the dance.

The words are as follows:

HOORAY! FOR OLD MCGILL

Verse:

We have a college fair,

No other can compare.

It's roots are deep, and so we say;

Deeper still they'll grow day by day.

Our colors are RED and WHITE,

That means we've got the fight.

If you wonder why our spirits are so high,

Listen! and we'll tell you why—

Chorus:

McGill stands for everything,

Of her we will always sing.

Her spirit lives within her thousand strong,

With so much spirit how could anything go wrong?

So fight on for OLD MCGILL,

And win for us all.

For it's M...C...G...I... double L,

HIP, HIP, HOORAY, HOORAY

FOR OLD MCGILL.

The M stand for OLD MCGILL,

The C is her Courage real.

And G stands for her Grit and Gallantry,

Her sons and daughters show for all the world to see.

The I is Integrity,

As long as She reigns.

And the L's mean Love and Loyalty,

HIP, HIP HOORAY, HOORAY

FOR OLD MCGILL.

Honorary Degrees For Wavell, Parry

Honorary degrees will be conferred upon Field Marshall Earl Wavell and Dr. David Hughes-Parry at a special Convocation to be held on Thursday, November 3rd, at 8.45 p.m. in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium.

Field Marshall Wavell, a distinguished soldier during the last war, has received honorary degrees from St. Andrew's, Oxford, Cambridge, Aberdeen, and London universities. Dr. Parry, B.A., M.A., LL.M., formerly Vice-Chancellor of London University, and now director for the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies at London, comes to Canada for a tour under the auspices of the British Council.

Dr. Parry will give a series of lectures in the faculty of Law at McGill, and Field Marshall Wavell will be guest of the Black Watch during his stay in Canada.

NEWS DESK EDITORS
A meeting of Desk Editors will be held in the Union tonight at 8 p.m.

This meeting is being held to review The Daily to date and to suggest improvements, therefore it is imperative that all Desk Editors attend.

Engineers Set Week To Promote Institute

Engineering Institute of Canada Week at McGill, Oct. 24-28, was announced today by the Engineering Undergraduates Society.

The purpose of the E.I.C. is to promote the interests of professional engineers in Canada. During the coming week engineering students will learn about its work from pamphlets and notices.

A desk will be set up in the entrance hall of the Engineering Building to provide information about the advantages of membership in the E.I.C. and to receive applications. A similar arrangement may be secured in the dining halls at Dawson.

Arts, Science, Commerce Nominate Few

Commerce students in the first three years made no nominations for this year's executive, reported Derek Ramsay, President of Commerce Undergraduate Society. Arts and Science nominations were also incomplete.

Advertisements in The McGill Daily called for nominations for a president and athletic representative in each of the four years in Commerce. When nominations closed at 5 p.m. Oct. 20, only fourth-year positions had been filled. Under these circumstances, Ramsay announced nominations for the first three years are still open and will be received at the Union Tuck Shop.

Four Arts and Science positions will be contested as follows: First year president, Marvin Gameroff, Jack Lesser, and Daniel Kingstone. Second year president, Mike Peers and Peter Miner. Second year vice-president, Willa Birks and Lucila Artola. Third year president, Art Friedman, Niels Nielsen, and Perry Black. Elections will be held Wednesday Oct. 26.

Ten Arts and Science officers have been chosen by acclamation: First year treasurer, Aurum Cohen. Second year secretary, Jacqueline Beaudoin; treasurer, Keith Drummond. Third year vice-president, Mary Loo Reoch; secretary, Marg Root; treasurer, Jim Robb. Fourth year president, Eugene Cartwright; vice-president, Joan Maher; secretary, Betty Brook; treasurer, Mike Cain.

The vice-president and secretary of first year Arts and Science will be appointed, since no nomination was received for these positions.

Refugee Undergrad Appeals Lost Coat

A refugee student who recently came to McGill has lost his one and only coat. He left his coat in the cloakroom of Redpath Library and someone picked it up by mistake.

Since he has no means whatever of obtaining another coat, he has appealed for the return of the coat to the Redpath cloakroom where he will pick it up. If further information is required it can be obtained from the editor of The Daily.

McGill Outing Club Outlines Plans at Last Night's Meet

Last night at 8.00 p.m. in the Union Ballroom the McGill Outing Club held a meeting at which the functions of the club were outlined to about 350 prospective members. Under the chairmanship of Peter Candy movies were shown.

Although this trail had existed it speakers were introduced and spoke on such subjects as rock-climbing, skiing, Winter Carnival and trailblazing.

Two movies were shown of the Dartmouth Winter Carnival in which McGill's own Porky Griffen starred in the downhill events. Following this a movie on mountain climbing in the Swiss Alps was shown to appeal to the tastes of the alpine section of the club. John Brett then gave a talk on rock-climbing and announced that this weekend he will be holding a class to teach new members the basic facts of rockclimbing. Also announced at this time was a trip down to Whiteface where a rock-

McGill Eleven Favored Over Tricolor Team

Should have some unconventional character three weeks ago dared to predict that McGill's football team would be in first place by the time half of the football season was over, he would have been quickly introduced to a straight jacket and rushed to the Allan Memorial Institute.

Yet this is definitely within the realm of probability. If Obeck's squad defeats Frank Tindall's Gaels at Molson stadium tomorrow afternoon and Varsity obliges by taking the measure of Western, there will be a three way tie for first place between the Blues, Mustangs and Redmen. Each will have won two and lost one.

Despite the fact that Tindall's men have lost their two previous games they will be no push-over for the Redmen. The power of the rebuilt Kingston crew is indicated by their one point loss to Varsity and the narrow verdict the Mustangs gained over them. However since Gaels will be playing without ace passer Al Lenard and the Redmen possess a one-one record for season's play they will reign as favorites.

McGill will be as close to full strength tomorrow as it has been all season. Ron Sharpe, a first string tackle, missed the Toronto game due to an injury incurred in a Phys. Ed. class, will be back in action tomorrow. Gene Robillard, one of Obeck's most promising quarterbacks early in the season has partially recovered from his knee injury and will start playing his way back into shape by quarterbacking the intermediate team in Kingston.

Haskell Blauer, a member in good standing of the plunging corps, is still bothered by his broken hair. He is taking light exercise with the team and should be back for the second Queen's game one week from tomorrow in Kingston.

Only one change will be made in the McGill lineup. Paul Wilson, a running half who played the first game of the season has been brought back up to the senior squad to replace Bob Stanley.

Tindall's Queen's crew is built on entirely different lines from the McGill club. It emphasizes speed at the way, with a speedy bunch of scat backs in McKelvey, Bryane, and Sissons, backed up by a light fast line.

Sisson's, a first year man, appears to be a real find. Press reports indicate that he has been one of the outstanding men on the team in all the Tricolor's tilts this season.

In the absence of Lenard, Don Bahner a former Ohio State player will handle the signal calling duties. At present it appears he will have only a group of cripples to carry out his commands. Almost every other player on the line-up appears to be suffering from some form of injury, and Bahner himself only recently returned to action after suffering a broken hand.

Veteran Jim Charters, sore hand and all will handle the centering duties. Two sound men, Simola and Salari start at guard. Bill Burgess, featuring a broken nose and Hal McKarney, a sprained ankle are the first string guards. All of Tindall's ends, Logan, Lampman, Woolley and Harrison are sound of body.

Frank Tindall, who generally rates as the strong silent type, has ventured from his usual position and commented on the game. He says that the McGill squad will be in for a few definite surprises if plans laid down during this week work out. He may have something there but Obeck and his men hold the Gaels in as much esteem as Toronto and Western.

Game time is 2.15 p.m.

COMMUNISM ON THE CAMPUS

A growing problem for university students is that touched upon in a recent letter to The Daily by Professor R. B. Y. Scott of the Faculty of Divinity. He pointed to the unfairness of a letter written by Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, and published in The Gazette.

Dr. Kirkconnell, a sincere opponent of Communism, has a habit of writing in such a fashion that the reading public is bound to believe there are more Communists among Canadian university students than there actually are. The net result, of course, is the fact that Dr. Kirkconnell's pronouncements on communism on the campus must be treated with some reservation.

Dr. Kirkconnell's letter listed 'the Student Christian Movement as being one of several organizations which had delegates at the Budapest Congress of "World Federation of Democratic Youth." He gave no further details, apparently being unconcerned at the impression he was creating. President N. A. M. MacKenzie of the University of British Columbia, one of the strongest supporters of the Student Christian Movement, pointed out last year that Communists seep into the organization but that did not mean the S. C. M. was Communist. Even Dr. Kirkconnell, we think, would hesitate to brand President MacKenzie a Communist.

Similarly, there are Communists in the Canadian Army, being fed and clothed out of public funds. So far, Dr. Kirkconnell has not written in such a fashion that the public is suspicious of the Canadian Army being a Communist organization.

Dr. Kirkconnell's false impressions appear to be catching in the Maritimes. The Halifax Chronicle-Herald published a remarkable series of three articles June 3, 4 and 6 of this year. This newspaper attempted to show that because the National Federation of Canadian University Students had considered sending a delegate to the International Union of Students, a Communist-dominated organization, Canadian student leaders were being taken in by Communist propaganda. The truth, which the Halifax Chronicle-Herald carefully avoided, was that some Canadian students felt there would be benefit in presenting Western ideas at any gathering of European students. This may have been too idealistic a viewpoint, but the fact remains Canadian student leaders were not being floundered by Communist propaganda.

The Halifax Chronicle-Herald pointed out that a great deal of Communist propaganda reaches Canadian university newspapers from Europe. This is quite true. The Daily has a rather fat file of this material. But the Maritime paper went on to say: "Received by the university student newspapers, some, if not a great deal of it appears in print in those publications." This statement could not be further from the truth. We read every newspaper and we can only say there is absolutely no foundation for this statement. The Daily has these newspapers on file and we challenge The Halifax Chronicle-Herald, the RCMP or any other interested organization to prove that statement.

We can only suggest that Dr. Watson Kirkconnell and the editors of The Halifax Chronicle-Herald read a story we read in public school. It was about a young fellow who cried "wolf" too often. He destroyed himself.—C. K.

Guest Editorial

MR. CHAIRMAN!

Be quiet. The fellow is trying to speak! What a strange malady this is, this problem of speaking. Have you ever tried it? Have you ever gotten up before more than a dozen people to say something without gagging half way through? Have you ever been able to speak your thoughts, which were so clear in your own mind, and not hear an incomprehensible jumble of words come from your mouth? If you haven't tried it before, you probably can't.

But why? Why all this trouble and quaking at something which is really not very difficult. The reason is obvious, of course, and is mainly due to a lack of self-confidence from little, if any, practice.

But then, why bother? The answer, to any intelligent person, is fairly clear. In early college and high school days, the average student is rarely called upon to speak or express his thoughts or arguments. This soon passes, however, and the student quickly finds as he makes his way into the upper years of college and then into business and life itself, that the ability to express oneself and to clearly present one's reasoned opinion before groups of people, is indispensable.

Speech and writing, after all, is the basis of communication. There is no other.

When we come to public speaking and debating, we may consider public speaking as a communication by one person, while debating is the presentation of an argument in opposition to an opponent who may reply. Essentially, however, both are the same except when communicating only facts without conclusions. Public speaking is a debate against a silent opponent, the thoughtful listener. He cannot reply but he will weigh your argument against silent questions of his own. What is more, he is also your judge.

In debating, your opponent is on hand to answer and to test your mettle more carefully when he tries to sway the audience to his side by an emotional play with words or by pointing to fallacies in your argument. You in turn have the same weapons to use as your skill and acuteness permit.

In college, this becomes an enjoyable game, a challenge to your tongue and mind. In business and in life, it takes on a more serious aspect. It becomes important to communicate your ideas to others. The best reason in the world falls flat if it can never leave your mind.

Letters to the Editor

CJAD ANXIOUS TO CARRY ON

Editor, the Daily:

In reply to your query re the present suspension of radio broadcasting activities at McGill, we find, after reading your article in the McGill Daily of Monday, October 17, that your quote, i.e. "indefinitely cancelled due to friction in McGill ranks" sums up this whole unfortunate episode.

As pointed out to Dr. James and Mr. Colin McCallum, president of your students' society, CJAD is anxious to carry on, as it has in the past, as closely as possible with McGill. We are now waiting for word from Mr. McCallum who will let us know when this whole matter has been straightened out in order that broadcast arrangements may be resumed at a later date.

R. J. Morrier,
Station CJAD,
Program Director,

Thanks

Editor, the Daily:
If you will allow me the space, I should like to take the opportunity here to thank all those who supported me in the recent elections and particularly to thank them for their trust and confidence.

It will be my first responsibility to fulfill this trust to the best of my ability in carrying out my duties in office.

Boris Gardavsky

Too Much

Editor, the Daily:

I wish to draw your attention to a most unfortunate error in your publication of Monday last. I had lent my name to the candidacy of a certain student, in my capacity as Producer of the Red and White Revue.

When the platform appeared, I found myself listed among other things as the Carnival Queen. This has caused me no small embarrassment, has resulted in several proposals of an undignified nature. I would like once more to emphasize that I am not the Carnival Queen but the Producer of the Red and White Revue. I do sincerely hope that such unfortunate occurrences will be kept to a minimum in the future.

Bill Nichols

Editor's Note: We agree that Mr.

Nichols has quite enough to do without taking on any other responsibilities.

Civil Rights

Editor, the Daily:

Since there was not sufficient time for me to explain my point of view at the recent L.P.P. Club meeting attended by Mr. Buck, I should like to do so now through the medium of The Daily.

In answer to the question I asked following the meeting, Mr. Buck stated that the ultimate aim of the Communist party was to replace the capitalist system with the Communist system. This implies the eventual overthrow of our own government. Mr. Buck had previously said, however, that in Russia civil rights were denied those who sought to re-establish the capitalist system. When I asked if, under the circumstances, would not the denial of civil rights to Communists be justified, Mr. Buck replied "If you like."

I do not know where Mr. Buck realized it at the moment but the implication of his answer was that he, as a Communist, had no right

The Daily's Copy Boy Helps Meet Deadlines

Rain or shine, The Daily's copy boy is on the job carrying valuable advertising, photographs and occasionally a bit of deathless prose in his briefcase. His main job is to take advertising to The Daily's printers, The Gazette, and to carry proofs of advertisements to and from the advertisers. But he carries the other material for the editorial department when it is short-handed and then feel more a part of the student body.

At 15, of course, Raymond Laviolette is a bit young to be a member of the Students Society. But his job is an important one and he takes no little amount of pride in "keeping the presses rolling." This is Raymond's first steady job — he works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. — and he feels it is good training for the future. He meets all kinds of people besides mad student journalists.

But no white collar job appeals to Raymond. He yearns for the wide open spaces with their "night of velvet silence." At seven years of age he went to a farm where he boarded for two years. He made up his mind then to become a farmer and a few years in Montreal hasn't changed his desire one bit.

He learned to milk the cows and to load hay and now a look of longing creeps into his eyes when he mentions the sights, sounds and smells of a farm. Though he didn't get along too well with a huge rooster on the farm Raymond won't be really happy till he once again sees the starry skies, northern lights and sunsets that city folk know little about.

Although the hours of work on a farm are long, Raymond prefers them to better hours in the city. Of course, he finds he is mighty tired some days on his Daily job. When he has done a particularly large amount of walking, he goes to bed at 7.30 or 8 p.m. — otherwise soon after 10. Three nights a week he attends night school.

Raymond is keen on getting some more schooling, but university appeals to him little. He confesses he was never much of a scholar and admits frankly that his behavior when a substitute teacher took over his class was not all it might have been.

Asked about his present school, Raymond replied: "I have to be have myself now — there's a man teacher. When he gives the strap, he gives them all on one hand."

He hasn't been strapped yet at his present school, but Raymond won't make any predictions. "My behavior is good," he says, "but I know I can't make it perfect."

NEW HILLEL centre as conceived by Architect Schrier is seen in the above "aerial view" of his model of the project, now on display at Hillel House. The project is, unfortunately, only on paper.

Hillel House Project

Architect's Dream

By Milton Winston

A modern religious and cultural center, designed by McGill graduate architect Arnold Schrier for his thesis last year, will be exhibited by the Hillel Art Committee for two weeks, beginning Sunday, Nov. 22.

The proposed new Hillel House, which theoretically is to be situated near Ross House, between Stanley and Peel streets, will contain a garden, an array of lawns, and trees. Located on the side of the mountain overlooking the campus and the city, the building may be reached by several short-cuts from the campus, shortening the long walk up the hill.

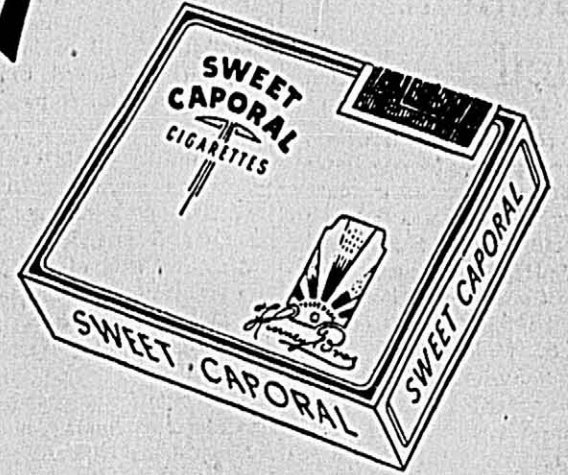

As visualized by Architect Schrier

In our imaginations, we may approach the project as it might be built in reality. On the outside there is a brass monerah, and can-

On Stage

This week, the Montreal Repertory Theatre has staged, as its first offering for the season, Pinero's "Trelawney of the Wells."

In writing "Trelawney of the Wells," Sir Arthur Pinero wielded a two-edged sword. First, this comedy has been designed to hold an audience; secondly, it serves a didactic end. Nevertheless both edges cut deeply.

Miss Rose Trelawney, the principal character, has been exposed to the frequent disappointments which permeate the constant turmoil of theatrical life. Tom Wrench, the aspiring playwright, is on a constant crusade in an effort to gain recognition. He has to put up with such vehement supporters of the prevailing school of playwrighting as the vice-chancellor, Sir William Gower, an old restrained gentleman, who only at the very end of the comedy melts into a sympathetic patron of realism. First then, we see that the England of eighteen-hundred and forty was quite unresponsive to the first of the English Realists, such as Tom Robertson, who is actually portrayed by Tom Wrench.

Secondly, the author has endowed his characters with gay spontaneity, vigorous ambition and overall mirth, at the same time flavoring these with the contrasting elements of moody melancholy and spiritual depression. What better method is there of holding an audience than that of instilling passionate and emotional tendencies in the parts, and what better medium is there of entrancing an audience than that of silhouetting the anxieties and tribulations of potential talents?

In the first act we are introduced to the struggling stage people of the "Bagnigge-Wells" theatre. Among them are Rose Trelawney, who is portrayed by Miss Sonda Gibson, and Imogen Parrot of the Royal Olympic Society, who has already attained fame in the realm of acting. The lewd and debonaire Avonia Bunn is depicted magnificently by Miss Marion Dennis who typifies the school of Augustus Colpoys.

As the plot unrolls we find Miss Trelawney reaching the residence of Sir William Gower in Cavendish Square. Here the fanatical whims of Gower, conflict with the talented eccentricities of Rose Trelawney and Egbert says "Why Stop? We've got plenty of gas left"

Egbert may be slow to take a hint, but he hits on all six where money management is concerned. He's not the guy to run short of anything either — not even gas on a quiet country lane. His financial reserve at "MY BANK" takes care of that.

Thousands of students from coast to coast are following Egbert's example. They're finding how easy it is to lay aside some of that cash from spare time jobs in a savings account at the B of M. They're finding, too, that a "fatality fund" is a big help when an emergency arises — like that damaged fender or an unexpected trip with the team.

Sliwka Leads Phys Ed Team to Championship in Track

Three Records Fall As Arts & Science Interfac Runner Up

Garnering a total of seventeen points and breaking two intramural track records, Hank Sliwka led his Physical Education team to victory over its nearest rival, the Arts and Science crew by sixty-five and one half points to twenty-nine.

From the opening event it was all Phys. Ed. and Sliwka, as Hank did the 120 high hurdles in 18.4 seconds and this, with runner-up Peart's second place three points gave the Physical Educationists an eight point lead, which they maintained and lengthened throughout the afternoon.

The Ottawa boy then proceeded to knock off the record of the Pole Vault, formerly held by Clark Kemp who established his nine foot nine inch record in 1947. Hank easily cleared this record and went on from there in fine style, finally topping the bar at eleven feet one inch, the new record. Sliwka is out of practice, apparently, as in the spring of '48, in the Dominion Inter-scholastic Meet, he cleared the bar at eleven six.

Continuing his fine work, Hank then showed the way to his fellow competitors, winning the discus throw with a toss of 114 ft. 10 1/4 inches, breaking the 97'1" record held by Swancy, established in

Blues Favored Over Western In London Tilt

Toronto, Oct. 19. — (CUP) — Despite the despondent and gloomy outlook of Coach Bob Masterson, his Blues are favored to topple the Western Mustangs for the first time this season. The two squads play on Saturday in Little Memorial Stadium the home of the Mustangs.

The bookies, both in Toronto and London have paid no attention to Mr. Masterson. Though he has said that his team was not prepared for McGill and is not ready for Western, bettors are forced to accept odds of three to one or five to two on Toronto.

The Blues, who spent most of the week practicing defensive formations, are suffering heavily from injuries. Archie Jones, team captain and centre is still out. He has been joined by Sinclair, Clark and Longmore, all victims of McGill. Murray Hadlow, a high school triple threat in his younger days, is reported ready to leave the injury bench. He will replace Sinclair.

Mustang publicity director, Don Hunt, reports that the Western team will be in tip top physical shape for the contest. Only two men, Doug MacKinley and Ross Grant were injured in last week-end's Queen's game. They both suffered small bruises and will be back in action this week.

By Saturday fullback Jack Matthews and ends Ross Beck and Bob McMonagle should be ready to go. They, along with Blake Taylor and Murray Henderson, missed the Queen's game. Taylor and Henderson could be ready for Saturday but it is doubtful.

Coach Metras tried an innovation this week. He has had his team workout under floodlights to get in an extra hour or so of practice.

Little Stadium is completely sold out for the game. Requests for tickets are still pouring in but all were gone weeks ago.

1947. To round out his seventeen points, 'Ottawa' Sliwka placed third in the high jump.

Record breaking was not all left to Sliwka, Haskell Blauer, who although handicapped by a cast over his wrist broke the record in the 220 yard dash, breaking the tape in 24.8 seconds, thus breaking Stratton's record by 0.4 of a second. Haskell also garnered two more points for the Commerce team by placing third in the 100 yard dash.

The Phys Ed's took the day's honors with a score of 62.5 points. Their nearest rivals the Arts and Science Team were second with a score of 29, while Commerce took third place with 22.5 points, one half a point more than the fourth place Engineers.

The individual thrills besides the performance of Sliwka was the expert running of the three mile race by the eventual winner Jardine who paced himself according to laps and won easily. The winners were:

- 120 yd. low hurdles, Sliwka, P.E., 18.4 secs.
- 100 yds., Rudd, Sc., 10.8 secs.
- 880 yds., Collier, Eng., 2 mins. 15 secs.
- Pole Vault, Sliwka, P.E., 11 ft. 1 in.
- One mile, Gilmour, P.E., 5 mins. 2.2 secs.
- Discus, Sliwka, P.E., 114 ft. 10 1/4 ins.
- 220 yds., Blauer, Comm., 24.8 secs.
- 220 yds. low hurdles, Collier, Eng., 28.3 secs.
- Shot put, Fraser, P.E., 35 ft. 8.75 ins.
- 440 yds., Collier, Eng., 57.2 secs.
- High Jump, Laffoley, Comm., 5 ft. 5 ins.
- Broad Jump, Rudd, Sc., 19 ft. 2.25 ins.
- Javelin, Bourdon, P.E., 135 ft. 2 ins.
- 3 miles, Jardine, Graduate School, 17 mins. 1 sec.

McGill Soccer Team Beats Greenfield

The McGill soccer eleven won their first game last night when they defeated Greenfield Park by a score of 6-1. This match was billed as an exhibition and the team has improved greatly since their last time out.

Folkes led the McGill team with four goals. Lemly and Kadar were the other goal getters for the Red squad. Greenfield was outplayed and outshot by McGill the whole way.

The game started at a fast pace and this was kept up all the time. Greenfield was the first to score but the McGill power soon began to show. Folkes got three goals in a row to bring the score to 3-1 for McGill. This is how the first half ended.

A few minutes after the second half started Kadar scored again for McGill. Then folkes connected for his fourth goal of the evening. The scoring was closed out by Lemly of McGill.

Abramowitz to Cut Basketball Squad Monday

Rugged condition combined with drills in the fundamentals of the hoopla pastime continued to dominate the picture, as the McGill basketball crews completed their initial week of practices.

Coach Moe Abramowitz had over forty hopefuls to work with in last night's workout, but he intends to cut the roster some time next week.

Practices from now on are expected to put less emphasis on conditioning and fundamentals, with more time being spent on scrimmages. This should give the Red basketball mentor a greater opportunity of analyzing the material at his disposal, and thus facilitate the process of picking out the cream of the hoopsters for his two squads.

Indians Vie for Sole Possession Of First Place in Queen's Tilt

Tomorrow afternoon at Richardson Stadium in Kingston, the McGill Intermediates will field a power-laden squad to do battle with the Queen's Comets.

Presently tied for the lead in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference with Bishop's, the Indians will attempt to pull away from the pack with victory over the G. At the same time Bishop's tangles with the powerful Ottawa University crew in the Capital City.

Making their third start of the season, the locals will be after their third victory, having completely overpowered their opponents in their first two outings. In the first game they swamped Carleton College 21-0 and then whitewashed the Dawson Dynamos 22-0 last Saturday at St. John.

During the past week, the already powerful Indians' lineup was further strengthened by two additions to the squad.

From the Senior Redmen they have acquired Gene Robillard. Gene, who was expected to play a major role in Vic Obeck's plans, injured his knee in pre-season drills and was forced out of action indefinitely. Recently, however, he had the cast removed from his knee and is just rounding into shape after a month-long layoff and will be lining up with the Indians until recalled by Obeck.

The other newcomer to the squad is Ray Deshields. Tipping the scales at well over 200 pounds Ray starred on the line with Wayne University in Detroit and will be a welcome addition to McGill grid ranks.

Looking at the Queen's team, they are not to be lightly regarded. In their first start they tied 1-1 with Ottawa and then last week rolled over Carleton 25-1. They will undoubtedly prove to be much tougher opponents for the Indians than either Carleton or Dawson, and this contest should prove to be the Red's severest test to date.

The Indians, however, have shown tremendous power both offensively and defensively and at present look like the team to beat in the loop, Queen's, Bishop's, and Ottawa U. notwithstanding.

Team for Inter Track Chosen

Still somewhat perturbed over the loss of the senior intercollegiate track championship to Toronto last Wednesday, coach Van Wagner is now in the midst of preparations for the intermediate intercollegiate track meet. This meet will be held next Wednesday at McGill.

Van Wagner's men copped the title last year and are heavy favorites to retain it. Opposition to the Redmen will come mainly from schools having teams in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence football conference. These squads include Loyola, Ottawa University, Bishop's, Macdonald College and Carleton College of Ottawa.

Present indications are that, as in the past, the main threat to Red dominance will come from the Green and Gold of Macdonald. Colin Cranham, a former University of Toronto basketball player and at present director of athletics at Macdonald, coaches the track team.

Murray McEwan, a steady sprinter and Fraser are two of his most potent threats.

McGill coach Van Wagner has entered the following in the meet. They are all requested to turn out to practice this afternoon, Saturday morning from 11 to 1 p.m., and again on Monday afternoon for a final light work out. If any are unable to compete, Coach Van Wagner must be notified immediately.

Entrants: Kline, Blauer, Delory, Serbinof Gilmour, Harrington, Jardine, Hyde, Sliwka, Peart, Chomay, Ramsay, Edwards, Matthews, Laffoley, Dujon, Headley, Boudron, Miller, Coffee, Fraser and Donnell.

FLASH . . .

The archery world comes into the news again as the inter-collegiate meet gets underway today at Toronto. The McGill girls will be competing against Western, Queen's, McMaster and Toronto. We have great hopes for the team . . .

McGill has won the inter-collegiate title for the past three years and this year's team is every bit as good as any past team. Two of last year's members are back. The other two girls shooting have never been in competition before. We are sorry that last year's intercollegiate champion is unable to shoot this year, but she is acting as manager, with Miss Wood as advisor.

The girls who will go to Toronto are Dorothy Spowart, Phyllis Bobby, Shirley Courtis and Lenore Griffin. Dorothy won the outdoor Silver Arrow competition this year, and so is the star member of the team. Dorothy hails from B.C. and is one of the remaining members of last year's team.

The West really places on this, as we find that Phyllis, a member of last year's entry, hails from Alberta. She is a Phys. Ed. student. All intercollegiate teams are allowed to have one-third of their members in Phys. Ed. In the case of the archery team where there are only four altogether, there can only be one of these girls on the squad.

We now turn away from this continent altogether and we find that Shirley Courtis is from England. Lenore is the only local gal present. She was just a beginner last year, but all accounts go to prove that she has very definitely improved rapidly.

SMASH . . .

The tennis journey is still underway and is in the fourth round. Still in the play we see champions Shirley Ellicott, Marg Davidson and Gay Elkington, as well as Alice Stewart, Audrey Septon and little Di Sutherland.

ODDS AND ENDS . . .

Now for all important notices . . . Anything that you wish to know about sports you can find out at the Phys. Ed. office or on the RVC Notice board . . . also those are the places where you sign up for anything that interests you.

Anybody who wishes to learn how to play basketball must sign up by next Wednesday, when classes will begin in the RVC Gym . . . nobody has signed up for this class yet . . . Pat Wallace has announced that intramural basketball will begin on Tuesday.

Back to the beginning . . . Fencing starts Monday from 5 to 6 . . . Archery is being held in the Rifle Range on Tuesdays and Wednesdays at two.

And now to the all important swimming world . . . rumors are that a show will be put on during the Combined Charities Campaign. . . Classes are being held, and open swimming periods are on Mondays and Thursdays from 5 to 6.

McGill Protest Over Referee's Decision In Hurdles Expected

Machinery has been set in motion to enter a protest from McGill on the result of Wednesday's Intercollegiate 220 low hurdle race. In rendering the decision which cost Livingstone of McGill second place in the race, McGill three points, and eventually the meet, Professor Hart of Western, the referee, left the way open for such a move.

Opinion seems to be that, despite the fact Livingstone knocked over three hurdles, enough for disqualification in inter-collegiate competition, McGill has good grounds for protest. It has been the practice in intercollegiate meets during the past few years to waive the ruling disqualifying a man for knocking over more than three hurdles. The rule has been done away with in international competition due to the fact that a hurdler is slowed sufficiently by hitting the hurdles to allow the foregoing of any further penalty. This was the case in the disputed race. McGill's Ian Livingstone was thrown completely off stride after hitting one hurdle and definitely slowed by nicking two more. Reliable estimators say he could have won the race by a handy margin over Toronto's Farlinger otherwise.

The ruling was waived as a matter of course in pre-meet consultation between the Toronto

Phys Eds, Commerce Win Touch Ball Tilts

Yesterday's game in the Intramural Touch Football Loop saw Phys. Ed. IV and Commerce 1 & 2 come out on top, in their respective tilts.

The Phys. Ed. team shut out the Arts and Science 1 & 2 squad by a 13-0 score. Arn Taylor and Doug Thacker scored touchdowns for the winning team. Flip Flewelling and Norm Burch with two and one points respectively piled up the remainder of the Phys. Ed. bakers dozen. For the Arts men Pete Miner and Norm Drummond were the standouts.

In the stadium at noon Law fell before Commerce 1 & 2 by one converted touchdown. Magder and Socransky scored the majors for the winning team, with Furse converting the last touchdown. The losers only score came when Paul McDonald went over for five points. The game ended with Commerce victorious by an 11-5 count. The game was the first win for the Comm. boys. They lost their first game to Grads 18-6 earlier in the week.

Inter Grid Schedule

The McGill Intermediate football team has four games left to play. This includes tomorrow's games against Queens at Kingston. The Indians, so far, this year have been undefeated and have not been scored against. Following is their schedule:

- Oct. 22—McGill at Queens.
- Oct. 23—Macdonald at McGill.
- Nov. 5—Bishops at McGill.
- Nov. 12—McGill at Ottawa.

Red Rugger Fifteen Battles Westmount In First Game of MacTier Cup Series

The Red rugger fifteen take to the field at 3 p.m. Saturday, at Westmount Park, to battle the Westmount Club in the first game of the MacTier Cup play-offs. As a result of lessons learned in last Friday's game against U. of T. several changes have been made in the McGill line-up and several weaknesses have been improved.

In this first competition for the cup since pre-war days teams have been entered from St. Francis Xavier College and University of New Brunswick in the Maritimes, from McGill, Macdonald College and Westmount in Montreal and from U. of T. and the Toronto Wanderers in Toronto. Plans at present call for the final play-off to be between the Montreal-Toronto winner and the winner in the Maritimes.

The following players who have been selected to represent McGill are required to report to the dressing-room at Westmount Park not later than 2.30 on Saturday:

MacPherson, Alexander, Keleber, MacMillan, Ramsay, Scott R., Flo- yer, Bishop, Creery, Price, Orr, New Brunswick in the Maritimes, Scott K., Fraser, Glen (Captain), from McGill, Macdonald College and Westmount in Montreal and Prentice.

hall for 462 persons. The upper portion of the assembly hall reaches the first floor.

Attached to the hall is a movie-projection room, with storage space for filling film. The hall itself has a stage designed for dramatic presentations, complete with curtain controls.

A library is located on the first floor, with an adjoining room set aside for the use of the librarian. For use in instructing students, there are three large classrooms, each of which is equipped with the latest devices. In each classroom, the lighting and the color-scheme conform with the architect's views on modern design.

Proceeding back to the lower floor, we find three meeting-rooms, a snack-bar and kitchen, the social lounge, a cloakroom equipped for a coat-checking system, and rest rooms.

The difficulty with many centres today has been lack of space adequate for serving hot food. Mr. Schrier has overcome this problem by including a planned kitchen with enough space to handle the food needs of the entire building. In the basement are situated the workshops. There is a special room devoted to photography and equipment for it, with a dark-room adjoining. Here in the basement also are the art, radio and publishing workshops. The radio department has a network of loud speakers throughout the house, enabling one to communicate with all the members.

Approximately in the centre of the building there is an enclosed section for an open-air terrace and a swimming pool. Arranged here too are athletic facilities, and for the indolent, deck-chairs.

Mr. Schrier is now in California furthering his studies, and could not be reached for a personal interview. But his model speaks for itself.

Mr. R. Sussman played the part of Sir William in a most commendable fashion. Almost two months ago, the director, Mr. Charles Rittenhouse, went to work and started casting for the play. He definitely deserves a hand for his skillful staging devices—witness Act IV, in which a brilliant co-ordination of both comical and serious speeches served to strengthen the entire performance.

All in all, "Trelawney of the Wells" provided the audience with a great deal of contemplative pleasure. As an opener for the M.R.T. this season, it was an undeniable success, and considering the fact that it is a purely voluntary effort, the act fully deserves the warm ovations which they received.

The Band

Editor, the Daily:

I hope that whoever the authorities are in charge of the supervision of the McGill Band would take note of this letter. I would like to put forth two suggestions concerning the use of our band.

I do not wish to offend any member of the band, for they are trying their best to give us satisfactory entertainment; and from what can be gathered, they have a great deal of respect for their new leader.

The first suggestion concerns the situation of the band at the home games of the football team. Why can't the band stay on the side of the McGill student cheering section? At the McGill vs. Varsity match, the band sat in a stand on the West side of the stadium, remote from the student section. In fact, they were adjacent to the Toronto student section. Thus, the music emanating from our band was barely heard by the team's most loyal supporters and when our boys would score, we would only hear the last few notes.

The second suggestion concerns the games played away from home. Why can't the band be sent along to aid our fans to stay in good cheer? The other C.I.A.U. teams always have their band present at out-of-town games. If Carleton College, an intermediate team, can have a band present at games away from home, why can't we?

From what can be gathered, there will be very large delegations of students going to the two remaining games away from McGill. Win, lose, or draw, we have been 100 per cent loyal to Vic Obeck and the team; and the team has never let us down as far as spirit is concerned. But, what about the band? Will those who are responsible for taking care of the band and its finances let us down again?

I hope that the present situation can be properly remedied. Let no one say that McGill students do not appreciate music.

—Stanley Grossman.

By D. & P.

Engineers are saying that they should have a column in The Daily, so being agreeable, easy to get along with fellows, we have decided to take a fling at it. (Note to Claude: You can lay the whip down now.) We have decided that an engineer's life is too orderly and so hope to introduce a certain amount of chaos via this column. Note to prospective engineers: taking up Engineering is like the little bug who hit the windshield — if he had the guts, he'd do it again.

Big opportunity of the week is the chance to join the Engineering Institute of Canada. Booths will be open in the Engineering building all week, so there should be no queues fellows! As a matter of interest, over 300 McGill students joined the E.I.C. last year. The Dawson College Society only hear the last few notes.

The second suggestion concerns the games played away from home. Why can't the band be sent along to aid our fans to stay in good cheer? The other C.I.A.U. teams always have their band present at out-of-town games. If Carleton College, an intermediate team, can have a band present at games away from home, why can't we?

From what can be gathered, there will be very large delegations of students going to the two remaining games away from McGill. Win, lose, or draw, we have been 100 per cent loyal to Vic Obeck and the team; and the team has never let us down as far as spirit is concerned. But, what about the band? Will those who are responsible for taking care of the band and its finances let us down again?

I hope that the present situation can be properly remedied. Let no one say that McGill students do not appreciate music.

—Stanley Grossman.
